The Pravasi Setu Foundation is a Section 8 nonprofit research and policy think tank based in New Delhi, India, dedicated to addressing the challenges and opportunities of migration – both within India and in the context of the Indian diaspora globally. The Foundation conducts in-depth, data-driven research on socio-economic, cultural, and policy aspects of migration, and works with policymakers, governments, civil society, and international organisations to shape inclusive policies that empower migrant communities. Through publications, media outputs, community engagement, advocacy, and capacity-building programmes, the Foundation seeks to amplify migrant voices and bridge gaps between research, policy, and lived realities.

The Girmitiya Foundation is an NGO based in India focused on supporting descendants of Girmitiya (Indian indentured labour) families in discovering and reconnecting with their ancestral roots, including the birthplaces and villages of their forebears. The Foundation also engages in cultural preservation, heritage research, and community support initiatives.
